About Hate Speech

Hate speech is an expression of discriminatory interaction and behaviour towards a person based upon the person's personality trait(s). It represents „any kind of communication in speech, writing or behaviour“. A society in which hate speech is used as a tool or is presented as a legitimate opinion is a society where prejudices, or even discriminatory behaviours towards others are being legitimized. Words are a powerful tool, and persuasive speakers can, with their intolerant discourse, induce horrible behaviour or even criminal acts towards others. Because of that, it is necessary to work on hate speech prevention even in those societies where hate speech is not present as much; but in those societies in which hate speech is a considerable problem, it is crucial to stress the importance of sanctioning these acts, as well as to educate the youth about the harm and consequences of hate speech. The assumption is that then, those young people will be able to strongly condemn these acts, will know who is in charge for sanctioning it and who address for support in fighting hate speech.
